

Jesus, He's Everything That You Need
Words and Music By: Ed Newman

Searching all your lives you strive, to find the truth, But it seems to slip away
Though you want to believe your friends possess reality, it's just a fantasy
Living all your lies you cry "what is the use?" but the answers slip away
And though you laugh with the crowd inside your lonely, so lonely

Wondering all the time, what is the reason or rhyme
wondering if you'll find someone who cares

Jesus, He's everything that you need
He's everything that you're looking for, for sure
He's everything that you need
He's everything that you're looking for, for sure
He's everything that you need

Liars from everywhere declare you're Number 1, but you know it can't be true
It's more like what you can do for them, than what they will do for you, Ah but that's nothing new Deep down inside your heart cries out, there's something wrong, but you know it could be right
If someone would just come along and show you, someone who knows you

Wondering all the time, what is the reason or rhyme
wondering if you'll find someone who cares

Jesus, He's everything that you need
He's everything that you're looking for, for sure
He's everything that you need
He's everything that you're looking for, for sure
He's everything that you need

Jesus, He's everything that you need
He's everything that you're looking for, for sure
He's everything that you need
He's everything that you're looking for, for sure
He's everything that you need
