Words and Music By: Ed Newman

Searching all your lives you strive, to find the truth, But it seems to slip away

Though you want to believe your friends possess reality, it's just a fantasy

Living all your lies you cry "what is the use?" but the answers slip away

And though you laugh with the crowd inside your lonely, so lonely

Wondering all the time, what is the reason or rhyme
Em7 Dm7 D Ds D
wondering if you'll find someone who cares

It's more like what you can do for them, than what they will do for you, Ah but that's nothing new

Deep down inside your heart cries out, there's something wrong, but you know it could be right

If someone would just come along and show you, someone who knows you
